ORTHODOX CHRISTIANITY

After the crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension into heaven of our Lord Jesus Christ, His disciples were gathered with thousands of people for the feast of Pentecost. Just as the Holy Scriptures had prophesied, and just as Christ had promised, “suddenly there came a sound from Heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and the disciples were filled with the Holy Spirit (Acts 2:2-4)”. They began to preach the Way, the Truth, and the Life to all those present in their native languages (tongues). From that day of Pentecost forward, the Apostles were endowed with power and the Christian Faith began to spread to the ends of the earth. Everywhere they went they appointed bishops, priests, and deacons and ordained them, by the laying on of hands. Nearly every Apostle died a martyr’s death, and many of their remains are preserved in Orthodox Churches to this day. Our form of worship began in Moses’ time, as it was revealed to him by God. Icons originated in the depictions of the cherubim which God appointed Moses to make for the Hebrew sanctuary (Exodus 25:18). This tradition of sacred art was continued by the Apostle Luke, who painted the first icons of the Virgin Mary holding the Christ Child. The early liturgical worship, born out of the synagogue and based on the Apostles’ experience of the Last Supper, is still followed in the Orthodox Church to this day.
